“HOT” Topics in AEDP™

Diana Fosha, PhD, Kari Gleiser, PhD, & Ben Medley, LCSW, with Molly Eldridge, LICSW

Monday - Friday: 9:00a.m. - 12:30p.m. EDT | 30-Minute Break Daily | 15-Hour Course
Delivery Format: In-Person or Live-Online

Aloneness in the face of overwhelming emotion is the epicenter of emotional suffering; it is what compels our patients to seek help. Thus, the therapeutic undoing of aloneness is essential to being able to process the turbulent emotions of trauma. AEDP™ psychotherapy, one of the fastest-growing approaches to working with attachment trauma, makes the undoing of aloneness the sine qua non of trauma work. Drawing on neuroplasticity, affective neurobiology, attachment theory, dyadic developmental research, and transformational studies, AEDP has developed a fundamentally dyadic, experiential, healing-oriented practice. As such, AEDP assumes a healthy core within all people and emphasizes the importance of dyadic experiential work with present-moment experiences of attachment, emotion, and transformation to undo aloneness, heal trauma and promote flourishing.

AEDP is known for its rich, creative, systematic interventions, which:

- clinically entrain positive neuroplasticity from the get-go
- undo the patient's aloneness in the therapeutic dyad
- work dyadically and experientially with here-and-now attachment experiences to expand relational capacity, rewire internal working models, and deepen receptive affective experiences of feeling seen, feeling felt and feeling loved
- use dyadic affect regulation to experientially process the emotions of trauma until they release their wired-in adaptive action tendencies
- metatherapeutically process the resulting experiences of transformation to expand transformation and promote its integration into self

Diana Fosha, PhD, (she/her/hers) is the developer of AEDP, a healing-oriented psychotherapy approach to treating attachment trauma and helping people connect to their vitality. She is also the Director of the AEDP Institute. For the last 20 years, Diana has been active in promoting a scientific basis for a healing-oriented, dyadically transformational trauma treatment model. Described by psychoanalyst James Grotstein as a “prizefighter of intimacy,” and by David Malan as “the Winnicott of [accelerated dynamic] psychotherapy,” Diana Fosha’s powerful, precise yet poetic phrases --- “undoing aloneness,” “existing in the heart and mind of the other,” “stay with it and stay with me,” “rigor without shame” and “True Other” -- capture the ethos of AEDP.

She is author of The Transforming Power of Affect (Basic Books, 2000); editor of Undoing Aloneness and the Transformation of Suffering into Flourishing: AEDP 2.0 (APA, 2021); co-author, with Natasha Prenzler, of Supervision Essentials for AEDP (APA, 2017); 1st editor, with Dan Siegel and Marion Solomon, of The Healing Power of Emotion: Affective Neuroscience, Development & Clinical Practice (Norton, 2009); and author of numerous articles and book chapters. Four DVDs of her live AEDP work, including a complete 6-session treatment, and a clinical supervision DVD, have been issued by the American Psychological Association (APA).

Kari Gleiser, PhD, completed her doctoral work at Boston University and her internship through Dartmouth Medical School with a focus on trauma and PTSD. In her practice, she specializes in applying AEDP to the treatment of complex trauma and dissociative disorders. Dr. Gleiser is the co-founder/co-director of the Center for Integrative Health in Hanover, NH, a trauma center dedicated to multi-modal healing of mind, body and spirit. Dr. Gleiser has co-developed an “intra-relational” model of therapy that imports AEDP’s relational and experiential interventions to patients’ internal systems of dissociated self-states. Dr. Gleiser has written several clinical papers and book chapters and has presented at international conferences. She also explores the intersection of psychotherapy and spirituality, as well as the emerging field of psychedelic-assisted psychotherapy.

“HOT” Topics in AEDP™ | July 29-August 2, 2024

Earn up to 15 Credits / hours

* Psychologists: Please see the CE section and agenda below for information regarding available credits.

Through the moment-to-moment, in-depth processing of previously overwhelming emotional and relational experiences, and then metatherapeutically processing the emergent corrective experiences within the co-constructed safety of the therapeutic dyad, AEDP helps clients recover their sense of core self and experience flourishing, i.e., increased vitality, connection, meaning, and a renewed zest for life.

In this workshop, we present AEDP through its engagement with some of the most important “hot” topics of our day: relational work with complex trauma and dissociation, expanding trauma work to include traumas of oppression and marginalization, and exploring the synergy of spirituality and psychedelics with AEDP’s transformational work. This workshop is appropriate both for clinicians new to AEDP, and those who have experience in AEDP and are interested in exploring these cutting-edge, “specialized” topics.

This course will be a balance of didactic material delivered in an engaging interactive style, videotapes of actual therapy sessions featuring moment-to-moment microanalysis, and experiential exercises. AEDP’s paradigmatic innovations will be demonstrated through clinical videotapes of actual therapy sessions (using real patients, not actors). Participants will gain a deeper intellectual understanding of the theory of AEDP as well as a repertoire of new skills to practice AEDP, including its application into cutting-edge areas like spirituality, liberation from oppression, and psychedelic-assisted therapy.

Course Agenda

Monday:

The Core of AEDP - Diana Fosha, PhD

Diana will focus on the dyadic experiential work with relational experiences that AEDP uses to heal attachment wounds. The AEDP 4-State Transformational model with its articulated state-specific transformational phenomenology will also be presented. With clinical videotapes.

Tuesday:

To Be or Not to Be... Relational: AEDP and Work with Complex Trauma & Dissociation - Kari Gleiser, PhD

Kari will demonstrate how to balance relational work with ‘Intra-relational’ interventions to help clinicians engage with a traumatized patient’s fragmented inner world, including interacting with dissociated parts in a way that fosters healing and transformation, not dependency and enactment. This methodology uses attachment dynamics as a compass to guide experiential interventions between therapist and patient; therapist and dissociated parts; patient and dissociated parts to build secure attachment bonds on each relational axis. With clinical videotapes.

Wednesday:

AEDP’s Triangle of Social Experience Guides Work with Traumas of Oppression and the Experience of Internal Liberation - Ben Medley, LCSW

Ben will introduce the Triangle of Social Experience, a new AEDP representational schema that he developed to help guide our moment-to-moment experiential work to transform the effects of the traumas of oppression and marginalization and foster and install the experience of internal liberation. With clinical videotapes.

Thursday:

Transformation & Integration on Steroids: Diving Deep & Soaring High - Diana Fosha, PhD, Kari Gleiser, PhD & Ben Medley, LCSW, Molly Eldridge, LICSW

The whole AEDP team – Diana, Kari, Ben & Molly—will delve deeply into the AEDP groundbreaking innovation, metatherapeutic processing, or metaprocessing for short. Metaprocessing refers to the experiential processing of corrective emotional experiences with the same rigor with which we process traumatic experiences. Doing so gives rise to innate healing affects (e.g., gratitude, love, compassion and self compassion, wisdom, clarity and the truth sense) and upward spirals of vitality and energy. These healing affects deepen and expand the transformation, and foster the emergence of a vital, vibrant and relationally engaged self. With clinical videotapes.

Friday:

Back to the Future: The Synergistic Energies of Metaprocessing, Spirituality & Psychedelics

Kari Gleiser, PhD & Diana Fosha, PhD

Kari and Diana will explore synergies between emotional hallmarks and states of consciousness evoked in AEDP State 3 and 4 work; the transformative power of mystical and spiritual experiences; the healing potential of psychedelic medicines. Shared phenomena such as deep connection to self and others, gratitude, awe, reverence, compassion, love, expanded states of consciousness, and a truth sense bridge the worlds of psychotherapy, psychedelic experiences and spirituality. With clinical videotapes.

* Psychologists: This section is not being offered for CE credit through the APA. Please see the CE page for CE availability by State.

Molly Eldridge, MSW, LICSW, is a certified AEDP clinician and supervisor. Molly has done extensive training in AEDP beginning in 2008 and is known for her enthusiastic embodiment and love of sharing AEDP. She has taught at the Cape Cod Institute, the New England Society of Trauma and Dissociation and given trainings at various organizations. An active member of the AEDP Institute, Molly currently runs several AEDP supervision groups as well as offering individual supervision and maintaining a private psychotherapy practice on Cape Cod for over 30 years.

Course Objectives

Upon completion of this course participants will be able to:

1. Describe how the AEDP therapist constructs dyadic safety and connection to undo the patient's aloneness
2. Explain how the AEDP therapist works dyadically with here-and-now attachment experiences to expand relational capacity
3. Describe how AEDP uses dyadic affect regulation and moment-to-moment tracking to experientially process the emotions of trauma to release adaptive action tendencies
4. Describe the use of moment-to-moment tracking to guide clinical interventions in AEDP
5. Describe the AEDP 4-State Transformational model with its articulated state-specific transformational phenomenology
6. Demonstrate how to balance relational work with 'Intra-relational' interventions
7. Discuss how AEDP uses attachment dynamics as a compass to guide experiential interventions for working with trauma and the client's dissociated parts
8. Describe how the AEDP triangle of Social Experience can guide moment-to-moment experiential work that aims to transform the effects of the traumas of oppression and marginalization
9. Discuss metatherapeutic processing and its role in AEDP
10. Discuss overlaps in the state of consciousness evoked in AEDP State 3 and 4 work and the mechanisms of psychedelic medicines and other non-ordinary states
